Good Afternoon John,

I don't interpret page 30 the same way you have below. The initial intent was that products being amended by the December 12, 2009 deadline, would cease using the old/non-compliant labeling within 6 months of label amendment being approved. Upon internal discussion we realized this would be unfair for registrants complying with the RMD. Therefore, we are allowing amended/reregistered products to be marketed under old, non-compliant labels until June 4, 2011. John H, of RD, has informed me we have been adding revised existing stocks language to every approved rodenticide product to account for this. Products whose labels are not compliant with the RMD, must be released by registrants into the channels of trade on or before June 4, 2011.

After June 4, 2011 any rodenticide product released by registrants must comply with the RMD. Retailers, in possession of non-compliant products released to them on or before June 4, 2011 may sell the non-compliant products until exhaustion.

Please let me know if you have any further questions.

Regards,

Rusty_____
